However, you, not your advisor, are responsible for selecting courses, meeting graduation requirements, and adhering to University policies and procedures. Your academic advisor is there to assist with the process. You are assigned an academic advisor based on your declared major and classification. The Archaeology Museum showcases artifacts from the Gulf Coast and covers over 12,000 years of prehistory and history. Artifacts are contextualized using a series of life-size scenic representations depicting archaeologists at work and glimpses into the ways of life of ancient Woodland cultures, mound-building Mississippian peoples, early French settlers, and an African American family after the Civil War.

Majors & Exhibits

Archaeology is offered as a major at USA. Even students who are not majoring in this subject have the opportunity to participate in historic digs in and around the Gulf Coast. You never know, you might find something of historical importance and have your artifact featured in the museum with your name on it!

The current exhibit being featured at the museum is entitled Pulp History Mobile. Pulp History seeks to shed light on events in Mobile's history that aren't always given attention using informative screen-printed posters. This assignment was inspired by the Paper Monuments project in New Orleans, which tasked a team of designers and artists with representing the voices of people who are rarely commemorated in public memorials. For Pulp History, students chose a variety of topics, such as the lynching of Michael Donald, the Crichton Leprechaun, the last known slave ship, and Mobile's hockey team, to commemorate in their screen-printed posters. The content and creators of the posters reflect the diverse population of the University of South Alabama and their collective vision of Mobile.

Past exhibits at the museum include the following:

- History Matters
- Darkness into Life
- Spider Martin
- Project562
- Half the Sky
- Alan Borg Minerals Collection

The Dynasty Continues (Posted November 9, 2020)

Below is an excerpt from an article that speaks to the winning tradition of our women's soccer team:

It has been a fall tradition for years now, but the University of South Alabama women's soccer team needed some late game drama to win another Sun Belt Conference championship. Morgan Cross scored twice in the final five minutes, 39 seconds to lift the Jaguars past Arkansas State 2-1 in the title game. With the win, South has now won seven of the last eight conference championships and it's the second straight year they've defeated the Red Wolves in the final. "I told the team that there's very few things that have reduced me to tears in my life and this was one of them. I am just so proud of them all," said Jaguars head coach Richard Moodie. Cross, a junior from Dunfermline, Scotland was named the Sun Belt tournament's Most Outstanding Player. Four other Jaguars, Ana Helmert, Allison Luckhardt, Brenna McPartland and Olivia Wilkes were named to the all-tournament team. The Sun Belt has also announced its all-conference team. McPartland, Gracie Wilson and Tilly Wilkins were named to the first team, while Cross, Helmert, Leandra Flury and Athanasia Moraitou were placed on the all-conference second team.
